Evesham Republicans Endorse Winning Council Slate

Evesham, NJ - Evesham Republicans announced their support of two millennial candidates to run for Township Council this year.

Drew Wilson, 36, in project management at Cigna, moved to Evesham in 2013 to start and raise his family. In that time, he's served on Evesham Township Zoning Board and spearheaded efforts to improve his community and unify residents by taking on a leadership role in his Country Farms neighborhood. Wilson earned his bachelor's degree in political science from Rutgers University and will bring fresh ideas to council to improve neighbors' lives.

Mark Mancuso grew up in Upstate New York and spent many years living and teaching English in South Korea before returning to the United States and settling in Evesham in 2014. Now at 36, the pharmaceutical business development director is ready to give back to the community he loves. Mancuso holds a B.S. in biology from Boston University and while working full time, Mancuso earned an Executive MBA from Quantic School of Business and Technology. He lives in the Willow Ridge neighborhood with his family.

"Drew and Mark are exactly who we need to bring Evesham Township into the next decade," said Evesham Republican Municipal Chair Michael Troso. "Their combined business experience and commitment to the community will bring an innovative approach to our township council as they work to help make Evesham an affordable and attractive destination for businesses and residents alike."

The council seats are currently held by Republicans Bob DiEnna and Ken D'Andrea who both chose not to pursue re-election this year.

"We're grateful for Bob and Ken's service to Evesham Township," said Troso. "Their contributions have added to the quality of life of all Evesham residents and we look forward to continuing to have Republicans serve in those seats come January of 2021."
